It seems to me we are reaching the period which will be known to historians as the "take" system. We want to take something from somebody or take somebody from something. It is now proposed to take the profit out of war, and there are indications that there are those who want to take the profit out of business. If we take the initiative and ambition out of daily endeavor we might just as well join the Carnation milk program, and lie down in green pastures with the contented cows.

And then there is the fellow when he's caught going 70 or 80 or 90 miles an hour, comes to you and wants to know what you can do about it, and you didn't do anything about it in the first place. It sort of helps when you can tell him that there is a city ordinance making you a party to the "crime" if you mix up in it and try and fix tickets or interfere with the legal turn-over. That is one time when you are glad that you can't write the faults of our brothers upon the sands. Let the traffic officer do the writin'.

This is baby week in some of the local stores. Guess I'll toddle in.

The Agricultural Extension service calls attention to an orchard heater demonstration to be held at the L. E. Allen place, Thursday, Oct. 28, 1:30 p. m. How to handle equipment to get the most protection at the least cost will be explained by experts. In case of rain the meeting will be held at the Tustin Hills packing-house, and I'll bet those growers who do not have to heat hope it rains. Floyd Young will give an address on "Lessons from the 1937 season," and that's something else I'd like to forget. However, the issues are important, whether you like them or not.

Tourist, who made Dodge City, Kan., en route home, says that city has a parking system he likes. It hasn't any name but he calls it the fender defender. The parking is parallel, and room is left over and aft to get in and get out without taking your neighbor's fender with you. And Dodge City in the old days was a tough town.

Most of my friends who went to Berkeley to see a football game saw half of it. I want to congratulate them. They returned without the usual alibi.

An Orange county citizen who does not seek the spotlight for his philanthropies, was responsible for the last contribution which put the Community Chest campaign over the top. He had given liberally at the outset of the canvass, and added the closing impulse to meet the goal. And by the way, he isn't a Santa Ana. More power to those who have, and to those who are so inclined.

Irish sweepstakes tickets, at least most of them, are not worth what you paid for them.

Copy of the Carmi Democrat-Tribune, Carmi, Ill., confirms the report that Pat Kane is in that locality. I notice the item says he was accompanied by his father, which also confirms the opinion prevalent here that father is still looking after little son.

Just about the time I thought everything was safe I tried to cross Broadway to get to the courthouse detached, and there was a bunch of fellows digging holes in the new pavement.

I do not know what the outcome of the chamber of commerce-board of supervisors controversy is going to be, but with the organization on county ground it will always be an issue, and if I had the money I would buy the chamber of commerce a lot and let some one else build a house in it. You see I wouldn't want to be so selfish as to buy the lot and build the building, too. However, if there can be found some amicable (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

FORGE NEW WEAPONS TO FIGHT SLUMP

Six-Point Program Is Mapped for Battle

(MERRY-GO-ROUND)

WASHINGTON.—There is good cheer for business men in one of the secret "recovery rescue" programs compiled by New Deal economists. It is for possible use in the event the industrial recession becomes so serious to require drastic restorative measures.

A number of proposals have been submitted to Roosevelt. This particular plan, the work of a leading administration expert who predicted the current slump as early as last spring, consists of six points:

1. Remit the last quarter of income tax payments, amounting to approximately a billion dollars.
2. Modify the capital gains tax in some details, and loosen up on the undistributed profits tax to ease the load on small business men and the construction industries.
3. Lower margin requirements on the stock exchanges.
4. Put pressure on the interstate commerce commission to grant the freight rate increase long sought by the railroads.
5. Expand relief expenditures.
6. Expedite action to get the new now-cost housing program under way at high speed.

STOCKS SHOW SLIGHT LOSS

NEW YORK. (AP)—Intermittent rallies and declines accentuated stock market nervousness today and while a number of issues managed to keep going on the upside there was a wide assortment of losers at the finish.

The list turned downward at the start but a buying spurt in Chrysler quickly turned the tables and initial losses of 1 to 5 points were converted into gains of as much. For a brief period the ticker was 4 minutes behind. Then a lengthy quiet spell ensued.

Extreme declines were reduced or canceled in subsequent proceedings when Chrysler and U. S. Steel backed away. At the close many of yesterday's favorites were under water.

Of special interest to boardrooms was word from Hyde Park that Chairman Douglas of the securities and exchange commission, after a talk with the President, might have "something to say" before long on the stock market.

Transfers were around 1,900,000 shares.

GOLFER CLAIMS INNOCENCE

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—"Mysterious" John Montague, who puzzled Hollywood pals by his reticence, told a jury today he was innocent of a robbery charge, and fled New York state because his clothing was found in a holdup man's automobile.

Denying participation in the seven-year-old $700 robbery of Kin Hana's Jay, N. Y., roadhouse, Montague, known in Syracuse, N. Y., as Laverne Moore, said he was "ashamed" of his connection with the case.

Montague said he "was not and am not ashamed of the name John Moore, but assumed the name John Montague in 1930 because it was 'different' from his real name.

Ten Persons Dead, 19 Injured in Train-Bus Crash

Bodies of 10 Persons fatally injured near Mason City, Iowa, when a Rock Island streamlined train crashed into a school bus are shown in the foreground of this picture. The bodies of dead and injured children were strewn for 500 feet along the tracks.

GANG DEATH HUNT BALKED

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Police groped for clues today in the gangland slaying of George (Les) Bruneman, whose ambitious plans to open a bookmaking agency in Hollywood were shattered by bullets.

Detective Chief Joseph F. Taylor, admitting he had no suspects in mind, blamed the assassination of Bruneman and a beer parlor employee, Frank Greuzard, Monday morning on an imported "mob."

Even the number of gunmen who participated was not definitely known, witnesses saying three or four sped away in a sedan. But where fact was lacking, lurid tales sprang up, repeated in the corridors of police headquarters as the investigation continued without success.

DELAY NINE POWER PARLEY

BRUSSELS. (AP)—The foreign office announced today the Brussels nine-power conference set for Oct. 30 to seek an end to the Chinese-Japanese conflict had been postponed until Nov. 3—because of the crisis created by resignation of the government of Premier Paul Van Zeeland.

Van Zeeland quit yesterday to defend himself, as a private citizen, against charges concerning administration of the Belgian National bank of which he once was vice governor.

King Leopold began consultations today to form a new cabinet. A scheduled parliament session was postponed.

The first victim was charming Peggy Akerman.

"Go," said Judge Pickhardt to her, "milk that goat." And he pointed a finger at the animal. Peggy did her best, but couldn't do much of a milking job. And so two other women freshmen were sent to aid her.

Cy Lieberman was cast in the role of Romeo, and his Juliet was little Irene Krisher. The six feet and two inches of football player was forced to make love to the demimure miss, but felt this hazing wasn't so tough, after all.

Russell Dussel, attired in a clown costume, performed a bubble dance, to music furnished by four frosh forced to chew two packages of gum at once.

Dorothy Skinner was accused of making sheep's eyes at all the boys, and she was haled into court with a ball and chain attached to her slim ankle. She pleaded that she took a secretarial course, and that when a young man came into the room it was a major event.

Jobless Census To Start Here Soon

How many jobless are there in Orange county?

That's exactly what Uncle Sam wants to know. And so he has ordered Santa Ana postal carriers and carriers in other Orange county postoffices to make a thorough and accurate check.

Orange county's unemployment census will be launched about Nov. 16, it was announced today by Postmaster Frank R. Harwood, following his return from the state postmasters' convention in San Francisco.

Santa Ana postal carriers will canvass every house on the Santa Ana routes, including town and rural routes. They will leave blanks at the homes, to be filled out. Then they will pick them up in order to secure the necessary information.

In case residents do not answer the questions, the carriers will call on them again, because they will check every point on their deliveries to make sure that the unemployment check is accurate, and that everyone answers the questions.

There are but three questions on the blank regarding unemployment. The blanks ask if the person is employed full time, or if he is employed part time, and whether or not he works for the WPA. Those who work for the WPA will be classified as unemployed.

All necessary supplies for carrying on the unemployment census have been received by the local post office. There are sacks and sacks of the supplies. Postmaster Harwood is awaiting definite instructions before making final plans for conducting the unemployment census.

The local census is part of a national unemployment check which will be made simultaneously over the entire nation. The program was authorized by congress and approved by President Roosevelt. The object is to secure an honest, accurate count of the unemployed numbers in the nation.

Postmaster Harwood said it probably will be necessary to employ some extra help while the census is being taken in Santa Ana.

REMOVE ELIXIR FROM MARKET

CHICAGO. (AP)—A government official said today virtually all of the elixir of sulfanilamide which caused 46 deaths in the nation has been removed from the market.

J. O. Clarke, chief of the central states division of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, said federal investigators had confiscated or accounted for all principal shipments of the preparation, 700 bottles, mostly pint size.

Five deaths in Georgia, and one each at Madisonville, Tex., Copley, O., Cary, Miss., Clayton, Ala., and St. Louis, Mo. were the latest reported to the American Medical association.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, the association's spokesman, said other deaths were being investigated to determine whether they were caused by the wine-colored preparation.

KING GEORGE ASKS PEACE

LONDON. (AP)—King George VI, an earnest figure in the splendid trappings of Britain's ancient majesty, pledged his government today to attempts to restore peace to China and Spain.

At the same time, the monarch promised air raid protection for all England and forecast more help for England's needy families.

The monarch read slowly and hesitatingly the prepared text of his speech. Frequent pauses, some of ten seconds' duration, broke the sentences and some words were lost entirely to the gallery—apparently because of a speech impediment which has troubled the king for a number of years.

George opened his first parliament from the throne dais in the somber House of Lords—with Queen Elizabeth in a chair of state at his side—and concluded with this unusual benediction:

"I pray that under the blessings of Almighty God the outcome of your deliberations may advance the happiness and well being of my people and the peace of the world."

Merriam Sets Duck Season

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—A formal order was issued today by Governor Merriam closing the entire state to hunting waterfowl, Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe and coot except between Nov. 27 to Dec. 26, both dates inclusive.

At the same time the governor rescinded the order which last year made the hunting date Nov. 1 to 30.

The order fixing the waterfowl hunting season in the state was issued, the governor said, to make it conform with the period fixed by federal regulations.

Green Silent On Proposal From Lewis Henchmen

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The Committee for Industrial Organization proposed today a reconciliation with the American Federation of Labor on a basis which a CIO leader said probably would give John L. Lewis control of the federation.

Lewis' 10-man delegation, negotiating for peace with the federation, suggested creation of a new CIO department within the federation which would be authorized to organize workers in mass production, machine, public utilities, service and basic fabricating industries.

The A. F. of L. committee, without an immediate answer to the CIO proposal, announced shortly after the meeting recessed that it "anticipated" it would be prepared to reply tomorrow when the session is resumed.

On a basis of membership claimed for the rival organizations, the CIO would have 3,718,000 members in the federation, compared with approximately 3,200,000 workers the federation now claims.

"This seems to us to be a case where we would control the federation by sheer strength of numbers," said Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel.

"We think this proposal puts final settlement of the issue up to the other side. The Federation conferees cannot afford to accept or reject our offer immediately."

The peace proposals brought a recess of the conference until tomorrow, apparently to give the A. F. of L. delegates time to study the CIO plan.

Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union, a CIO affiliate, was the first to come out of the conference room. Asked why the conference had recessed after a session of only an hour and a quarter, Curran said:

"You can't expect them (the A. F. of L. committee) to come out of a dead faint and go right on negotiating."

AUTHOR'S DEATH PUZZLES POLICE

VENTURA. (AP)—The "fireplace death" of Peter Veysey, astrology writer, puzzled authorities today.

Dist. Atty. Albert D. Barnes ordered an inquest after an autopsy showed that neither a heart attack nor a skull fracture took Veysey's life. There were no marks of violence.

His head and shoulders lying in the embrace of his Ojai cabin fireplace, Veysey was found dead Sunday evening.

The writer's wife, Betty, made the discovery. She said her husband had instructed her to keep their son, Laurence, 5, outside during the afternoon while he burned a quantity of old clothing and papers.

STREAMLINE THOSE SHOES

By BRADEN FINCH
The new 1938 model cars on display are so streamlined that they make a tear drop look like a horse and buggy.

Big business is overlooking a real bet in not streamlining another kind of transportation. I mean shoes.

The first economic royalist who discards shoe ices and puts on zippers instead will be able to declare extra dividends oftener than the Japanese have bombed American citizens in China. And the first scientist who takes the ache out of a pair of new brogans will be patted on the back oftener than they have apologized for it.

Rangers Seek Missing Hiker

SAN BERNARDINO. (AP)—La Vergne Carpenter, 23, missing since Sunday morning when she started on a mountain hike, was sought by rangers and sheriff's deputies today. Mrs. Ida Warren, a friend, said she was a cousin of Carpenter's, French boxer, and was studying drama in Los Angeles, having gone there from Wichita, Kans.

CLUBS AID IN FEEDING S. A. HUNGRY TOTS

Substantial contributions by Santa Ana service clubs to provide milk for children in Santa Ana schools—together with $10,000 set aside in this year's Community Chest—have virtually solved the problem of undernourishment, Superintendent Frank A. Henderson indicated today.

The Lions club has just donated $250 to care for undernourished pupils in Edison school, Henderson reported at last night's board of education meeting. The Rotary club activity had provided for Fremont school, Kiwanis for Franklin school, Delhi school is the only one in the city that needs milk for certain of its pupils, Henderson revealed.

DEDICATE NEW HIGHWAY

LONE PINE. (P)—Plans were complete today for dedication Friday, Saturday and Sunday of the Mt. Whitney-Death Valley highway, which leads from the highest to the lowest points in the United States.

A gourd of water will be carried from Tulainyo Lake, 12,865 feet above sea level, by an Indian runner, Pony Express rider, burro-leading prospector, ox-team wagon, 20-mule team wagon, stage coach, narrow-gauge train, automobile and airplane to Bad Water, 310 feet below sea level.

The arrangements committee is urging spectators to bring their trailers or camping outfits, as the country still has few hotels or tourist camps.

LOCAL ELKS JOIN WAR ON TRAFFIC TICKET 'FIXERS'

CAMPAIGN TO BE OUTLINED OVER KVOE

Drive Commended By Police Chief

Twenty-two hundred Orange county Elks today had joined a nation-wide drive against "insidious evil" of traffic ticket fixing as the central point in a concentrated safety campaign for the next year.

The new safety program will be outlined in a nation-wide radio address by Major Charles Spencer Hart, grand exalted ruler of the Elks organization. It will be heard over station KVOE and other stations of the Mutual network from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow.

Harold Brown, exalted ruler of the Santa Ana lodge, said the local organization would join with others in the county in pledging every Elk to agree not to attempt to "fix" traffic tickets.

Police Chief Floyd W. Howard commended the organized "moral support" of his safety campaign, pointing out at the same time that Santa Ana is the only city in the state that has an ordinance which makes it a misdemeanor to attempt to fix tickets.

"The police department welcomes the wholehearted support of its safety campaign by such a large cross-section of the public," Howard commented.

Tomorrow night's radio program also will feature the Elks national chanters, a 400-voice male chorus from Los Angeles and the national band from Cleveland, Ohio.

MASON SCORES DICTATORS

Last night in the high school Little Theater at the adult education discussion group meeting John Brown Mason made a stirring appeal to all lovers of democracy to re-examine their beliefs. He showed clearly that the dictatorships lack the fundamental principles of democracy.

The right of free speech, free exercise of the franchise and freedom of association are denied under dictatorship. And without these democracy is an impossibility. With all its faults modern democracy does retain these fundamental rights.

Mason went on to say that democracy carries along with its privileges certain obligations which must be met if the democracy is to reach its highest possibilities. Among these are active participation in government which in turn involves a study of civic issues; the free exercise of judgment rather than obedience; thinking rather than yessing; and respect for political opponents rather than suppression.

Applause greeted the announcement that Dr. Mason was to offer two more discussions, one in "Ezra—A City in Exile" being scheduled for next Monday and the second for the following Monday. It was also announced that the place of meeting had been changed from the Little Theater at the high school to the auditorium at the Willard Junior High school at 1342 North Ross street.

BOURBONS HEAR E. C. PURPUS

Attorney Edwin C. Purpus, Los Angeles, delegate to the national Democratic convention, was the featured speaker at a monthly meeting of the California Assembly of Democrats, Orange county unit, last night in the Golden Bear cafe, Huntington Beach.

Purpus discussed Democratic affairs and the Constitution in his address. Others who spoke briefly included Senator Harry Westover and Mayor William H. Warner of Huntington Beach, Warner giving the address of welcome.

The speaker was introduced by Judge Charles P. Patton, vice chairman of the assembly for the Huntington Beach district. Judge Patton also introduced other honored guests. Chester I. Dale, general chairman of the assembly, presided. Entertainment was furnished by the Long Beach Hillbilly orchestra.

The November meeting will be held in Fullerton.

COURT STUDIES ESTATE FIGHT

Hostilities over the $50,000 estate of Frank Whiting, wealthy Sunset Beach invalid who died Aug. 15, 1936, were under submission today to Superior Judge G. S. Scovel.

Meanwhile a final account by William J. Clark of Alhambra, executor of the estate, and a petition for distribution were taken off calendar while Judge Scovel considered the fight of Mrs. Ruth Elvira Whiting to get a part of the estate.

Mr. Whiting cut his wife out in his will, saying he believed she married him for his money. They were divorced last year after being married six months; and he died the next month.

She now charges that Clark failed to account for three Pekinese dogs, household furnishings in Alhambra and Sunset Beach and diamond jewelry which she alleges belongs to the estate, and is suing for an accounting. She was unsuccessful in a will contest last year, in which she declared Mr. Whiting was under the influence of his mother and Clark when he made the will. The estate, according to the will, is left principally to his mother and daughter.

If more pupils would do this, there would be more apples and consequently a higher standard of living. Yet we are calling a special session of congress in order to control surplus, and if there were more apples, there might be a surplus of apples and that puts us, or we, economists up the stump again.

If it is fair to control the surplus in apples, it is fair to control the surplus in pictures. That brings me to my conclusion, which is the explanation of the picture accompanying this article.

In case you can't read, the picture of the calendar illustrates what I mean by the use of pictures to make columns easier to understand. Just clip it out and paste it on your watch. It will prove a handy time saver, and keep you from getting your dates mixed up.

If you understand just what I mean. If you don't, write me and I will write another column publicly or privately explaining what I mean in this one.

PARADE AND GRID GAME FOR NOV. 11

While the annual Orange county Armistice day parade will be the highlight of the Nov. 11 celebration in Fullerton, the afternoon program will offer a feature of special interest in the Fullerton Union High school-Santa Ana High school football game.

Final arrangements for the game, which will bring the two oldest athletic rivals in Orange county together, have been completed by Fullerton post 142, American Legion, which is conducting the Armistice day program.

The game will be at 2:15 p. m. and tickets for the event have already been placed on sale throughout the county in various Legion posts.

60000 SEATS

Accommodations for more than 60,000 persons are available at the Fullerton stadium.

Arch Cooke, general manager for the Armistice day celebration, is soon to open headquarters in the chamber of commerce offices in Fullerton. Already parade entry forms have been returned, assuring a good collection of floats, marching units and musical organizations. The mounted division, always a feature of Orange county parades, will be especially large this year, Cooke said.

No particular theme has been set for the parade, the selection of float subjects in keeping with the occasion having been left to the various organizations entering the pageant.

Efforts are being made by Legionnaires throughout the county to assure a general holiday Nov. 11. Schools will be closed on that day and a record crowd is anticipated for the celebration in Fullerton.

Debate Sloping Of School Floor

Construction of a new sloping floor at the Edison school auditorium will depend on the durability of a bookkeeping machine, it developed last night.

The Santa Ana board of education has budgeted $1400 for a new bookkeeping machine, but has set no money aside for a new auditorium floor.

Last night, the school trustees agreed to start construction of the floor in the near future "if it looks like the old bookkeeping machine will last through the year."

The present floor is a flat, concrete one on which desks are mounted instead of seats. The building is being used as an emergency classroom. Present plans call for installation of regular auditorium seats, but officials hope to build a more adequate sloping floor at a cost "not to exceed $1000" before the new seats are put in.

SCOUT HEADS TO MEET AT NEWPORT

Meeting Called to Discuss 'Rendezvous'

NEWPORT - BALBOA. — Dr. Gordon M. Grundy, general chairman of the Newport Harbor Scout committee, has called an important meeting of the executive committee of that group for Monday at noon when final arrangements for the Sea Scout rendezvous will be outlined and recommendations for the work of the local committee will be made.

Added importance has been given to this year's session by the visit of National Sea Scout Commodore Howard Gillette of Chicago, who will remain during the entire session.

The land ship built for this occasion under the direction of city officials is about ready and will be given final inspection and finishing touches in the next 10 days. The land ship will be used as headquarters during the rendezvous and later will be moved to the site of the proposed Sea Scout base located on the county channel.

Dr. Grundy has appointed Arthur Krueger, instructor at the local grammar school, a member of the executive committee to act for Vernon Orr, scoutmaster. In this way the Sea Scouts, who are represented by Skipper Thomas E. Bouchey, and the Boy Scouts, represented by Krueger, will have a speaker on the executive group.

Detailed programs for the rendezvous are now being completed at Scout headquarters in Los Angeles and will be ready for distribution in the next few days.

Laguna Bus Depot Agent Ousts Aromatic Guest

And so they opened the doors after shutting off the lights, and waited in the semi-darkness . . .

A hazy shape nosed around the corner and leisurely stepped, cat-like, out into the street.

They watched him walk slowly down the street, past the street lamp, into complete darkness of the foggy night.

And so the skunk got out and slowly walked away. A hibernation of two days in the bus depot was ended by a curious skunk Sunday evening, terminating more than 24 hours of terror for Station Agent Mrs. Charles Turner.

"Saturday, I was sitting behind the counter, when suddenly I noticed a peculiar odor . . ." reported the jubilant Mrs. Turner today. "Then from around the corner a skunk . . ."

Pausing a moment as if to make a cursory survey of the depot and ticket office, the skunk walked behind the counter, past Mrs. Turner, who sat in tense silence, and rushed into the store room back of the office.

All went well for several hours. Mr. Skunk behaved himself quite properly, for when Mrs. Turner entered the store-room, he paid little attention to her. He lay still, a ball of striped fur.

DOG INVESTIGATES But the equanimity didn't last. Sunday morning a noisy neighbor dog decided to investigate. He got his. So did the ticket office, and Mrs. Turner had to close the place for several hours. Finally, when the odor had lifted, after a dog had gone sadly, malodorously home, Mr. Skunk lay quiet but in hiding.

Then Mrs. Turner decided to wait until nightfall when the fog creeps in . . . the rather unwelcome visitor could creep out. At 8:45 p. m. Sunday, the animated bundle of musk left with restraint, serve and dignity. Whether he will return depends on which way the wind blows on fate, and all its ramifications . . .

AUXILIARY OF LEGION MEETS

Mrs. Louise Osmun described the new mental ward at Sawtelle, inspected during a recent visit. Miss Maude Sisson reported on the county council meeting held Oct. 12 at Seal Beach. The writer, just before writing this paragraph, communicated with Mrs. Zimmerman over the telephone and she repeated to him that her husband, W. A. Zimmerman, who is in St. Joseph hospital after a very serious operation, appears to be on the road to recovery. He has gained strength and will likely be strong enough to be removed to his home sometime the coming week. Zimmerman is president of the Orange County Townsend Club Officers' association and also of Santa Ana Club No. 5.

Mrs. Mary have been calling concerning his condition and this information is being given to allay the fears of his many friends.

The Orange county ladies auxiliary is meeting at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon in Santa Ana Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street. Last Wednesday approximately 75 Townsend ladies were present at the weekly meeting and a splendid and profitable time was enjoyed. Every loyal Townsend lady in the county is invited to tomorrow's meeting. Remember the Townsend bazaar will be held in this hall Dec. 1, 2, 3, and 4 and plans need to be made concerning same.

Here's a notice that should have been in Monday's paper but got crowded out because of the mass meeting report. It is: Costa Mesa Club No. 3 is holding a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 this evening in Townsend hall at 2204 Newport boulevard. A short business session will follow the dinner and the Costa Mesa Club No. 2, sends $2 as her club's contribution toward the Townsend float. The writer has also received a check for $1 from C. A. Barnett of the La Habra Club No. 1 for the same purpose.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

The Wackey family, entertainers that border on the professional, will be at Santa Ana Townsend hall as a portion of a great Orange county-wide Townsend mass meeting being staged next Friday night. These folks are said to be top-notchers in their ability as side splitters.

Judge Deloss Higgins has been secured as speaker. He is one of the best Townsend speakers in Southern California and never fails to ring the bell that brings enthusiasm to his audience. The Hurd-Lentz orchestra will furnish the concert music. Announce this in all club meetings and urge your members to come and bring their friends. Tables will be arranged for those who want to indulge in a pot-luck dinner. And for those who want a light lunch, the ladies will serve coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches and so forth.

District Manager J. H. Walsh will be on hand to direct the program. If you'll surely miss something worth while from all reports coming to the writer.

The writer, just before writing this paragraph, communicated with Mrs. Zimmerman over the telephone and she repeated to him that her husband, W. A. Zimmerman, who is in St. Joseph hospital after a very serious operation, appears to be on the road to recovery. He has gained strength and will likely be strong enough to be removed to his home sometime the coming week. Zimmerman is president of the Orange County Townsend Club Officers' association and also of Santa Ana Club No. 5.

Mrs. Mary have been calling concerning his condition and this information is being given to allay the fears of his many friends.

Santa Ana Club No. 8 is meeting at 7:30 this evening in the Lincoln school in the 1400 block on French street with J. H. Nicholson, president. This club has contributed $2 toward the Townsend float.

The Orange county ladies auxiliary is meeting at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon in Santa Ana Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street. Last Wednesday approximately 75 Townsend ladies were present at the weekly meeting and a splendid and profitable time was enjoyed. Every loyal Townsend lady in the county is invited to tomorrow's meeting. Remember the Townsend bazaar will be held in this hall Dec. 1, 2, 3, and 4 and plans need to be made concerning same.

Here's a notice that should have been in Monday's paper but got crowded out because of the mass meeting report. It is: Costa Mesa Club No. 3 is holding a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 this evening in Townsend hall at 2204 Newport boulevard. A short business session will follow the dinner and the

A Lively Vocabulary Builds Up Charm

Good Talk Brings Good Times

What a little charmer Sally is! Her lively vocabulary fascinates Ted.

At the big game he loves to see her all agog about the "giddy mob," "the crowd's excited roar," "costumes the color of autumn leaves," "the drum major who struts like a prouder pizoon."

Sally's clever. She wasn't born with the right words. Every occasion on the tip of her tongue. But she keeps her ears open, watches newspapers and magazines for vivid new ways of saying things.

And she weeds errors and trite, boring slang out of her vocabulary as quickly as she spots them. You'll never find her boring a date with tiresome expressions like "and how," "you're telling me," "no kidding."

Or making a bad impression by saying "broadcasted" for broadcast, "dark-complected" for dark-complexioned, "dove" for dove, or "humans" for human beings.

Make your speech a social asset. Our 32-page booklet shows how to check errors, acquire a lively, pleasing vocabulary.

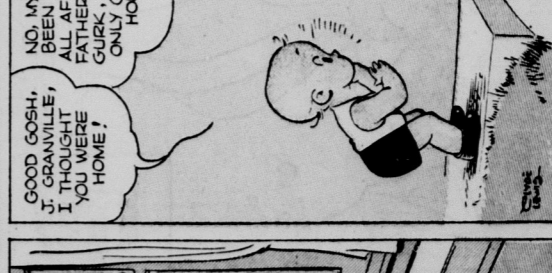

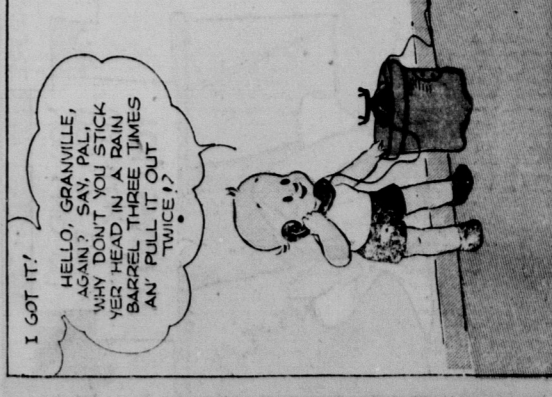

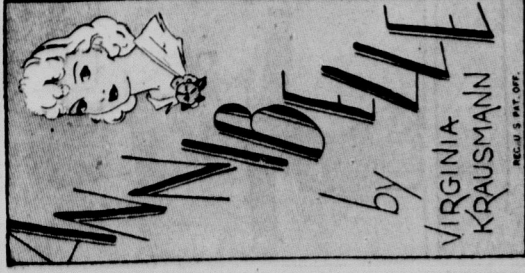

Send 10c for your copy of How to Improve Your Vocabulary to The Journal, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Funeral services for Caleb Fitch Jackson, 83-year-old retired Ohio business man, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the Brown and Wagner chapel.

Mr. Jackson was born on a farm near Norwalk, Ohio, and spent most of his life in that district before coming to Santa Ana 11 years ago. Orphaned at 16, he began his career as a clerk in a Norwalk dry-goods store, and at 19 owned the First National Drug and Grocery store at Flint, Mich.

Later he established other businesses, serving as director in banks and corporations and in civic affairs. Mr. Jackson was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, being the great-grandson of Col. Giles Jackson, author of articles of capitulation at Saratoga. Other affiliations were with the Elks, Masons, Knights of Pythias, Macabees and the Presbyterian church.

I JUST FOUND
OUT—How Stock

By MILLARD BROWNE

When stocks get jumpy, most Orange county stockholders don't actively get in the game. They just kibitz. Because stocks and bonds are investments, not speculations to 75 per cent of the county's financial brains—big and little.

Three-fourths of the people in these parts buy their stock outright and wait for dividends, rather than a chance to sell for twice what they paid. The remainder buy on margin so their money spreads over more shares. They stand to make or lose more with each fluctuation, though most margin-players in Orange county are conservative enough so they don't take terrific wallopings.

Big doings on the stock market like last week's slump and subsequent recovery naturally make all Orange county investors nervous—whether they're small-fry white collar workers who have scraped up $200 or $300, or big-time ranchers and business executives.

But for the most part they just watch the prices shimmy, mentally compute winnings and losses, and hang right on to their shares until the next dividend check rolls around.

An estimated 25,000 Orange county residents own stocks or similar securities, but only around 2000 do much active trading.

One group of stock certificates issued back in 1927 was checked in at a local broker's office just a few days ago. Holding stocks that long is unusual, but not very.

From 200 to 300 stock transactions are made in the average day through Orange county's eight stock and bond brokers, and a few banks that handle certain types of securities. These range from around $100 to $5000 or $10,000.

Ranchers, widows, retired folk, low-salaried workers and conservative business men do most of the stock market "investing." High-salaried professional men and others with steady incomes are more likely to "speculate."

One grizzled individual in patched clothes dropped into a Santa Ana broker's office two weeks ago, startled officials when he plunked down the cash for a few shares of low-priced stock. It was money he apparently had cached away in his small shack on the river bed.

Individual stock sales through regular brokers in the county have been made for as little as $50, and for as high as $100,000.

Favorite stocks with Santa Anans are the California issues—Standard and Union Oil company, Southern California Edison Co., P. G. & E. and Pacific Light. Local activity also is good in such nationally popular ones as Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Copper and Montgomery Ward.

"Old ladies home" for hundreds of conservative Orange county investors is American Telephone stock, many brokers agreed.

Some local brokers have tickers, or simplified teletype machines, operated directly from New York. They register each transaction with a symbol for the name of the stock, number of shares sold and the price that was paid. Stocks are sold in lots of 100 on the New York exchange, and odd-lot transactions aren't registered on the ticker tape.

Except when stocks are jumpy, the ticker is kept right on time with actual sales. Last week, while buying and selling were booming, the machines ran from 14 to 18 minutes behind.

Eighteen minutes might make a difference of several dollars a share while the market is fluctuating rapidly. Just yesterday, Chrysler stock jumped from 60 to 66 in less than five minutes.

Ordinarily, it takes less than a minute for a person in Santa Ana to file his order for a particular stock, have the order relayed to New York and the deal completed. Even then, however, he can't be sure it will be the same price as when he filed the order.

So he can either put in a "market order," or offer to buy at whatever the market price is when his order reaches Wall Street, or he can file a "price order," in which he specifies the price he will pay, takes the stock if he can get it for that much, or lets it go if he can't.

More than 1300 stocks are listed on the New York exchange, and nearly a thousand of these are bought or sold by different Orange county investors during the course of a year.

Local "boards" post a selected

300 of these, together with the market price as it is flashed on the ticker. The 300 represent those of most general interest in this district, and constantly are changed as public investments change.

William Cavalier & Co. is hang-out for many of Orange county's financial big- and little-wigs because of its board and easily-read Trans-Lux ticker, with which glassine tape from a regular ticker is projected onto a large ground-glass screen.

Here many investors gather to sing the blues on a slump and form a cheering section on a sudden upturn. "They seem to sense it," an official explained. "The market can roll along smoothly for days, then when it suddenly starts to act up, the place immediately fills up."

That's typical of all the local stock brokers' offices. People come in to join the fun and watch the zig-zags of their favorite stock issues, and a few stand by 'til they think a certain stock is low enough to buy or high enough to sell.

Most commonly accepted index to general market conditions are the Dow-Jones averages, computed every half hour through the day from 30 selected industrial, 20 rail and 20 utility stocks.

Strictly local stocks for the most part are held by small groups—closed corporations—and they don't fluctuate perceptibly in value. No Orange county stocks are listed on any exchange, all trades being made directly through the corporation or from one person to another.

Local stock exchanges are under strict regulations both from the New York exchange, if they are members, and by the Securities Exchange commission.

New York exchange memberships cost around $100,000, and funny business will bring costly suspension. S. E. C. also levels on shady deals with a wide range of authority.

So strict is S. E. C., in fact, that local brokers aren't supposed to recommend any specific stocks for its customers, nor to solicit on behalf of any group of stocks. They do furnish information, however, by having various services—Moody's, Poor's, Standard Statistics and others—available for their customers.

A bicycle belonging to Virgel Crenshaw, 1029 North Parton street, was stolen from the Santa Ana school grounds yesterday, Crenshaw reported to police.

GROVES WILL

The last orchard heater management demonstration of the season to be given by the extension service of the University of California is announced for this Thursday, at 1:30 p. m., by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg.

Oranges, lemons and avocado groves of Orange county will be given a special opportunity to get the latest word on efficient handling of heaters, from university engineers who have made a special study of orchard frost protection. A truckload of equipment will be brought here from the university heater laboratories, where tests of various heaters and handling practices have been developed to help the grower get the most efficiency from his heating equipment. W. R. Schoonover and J. P. Fairbank, the visiting specialists from the University of California, assisting Farm Advisor Wahlberg in the demonstration. Proper placement of thermometers, selection of fuels, fuel storage, pipelines and bowl heater management, reducing the smoke nuisance and other phases of orchard heating will be demonstrated.

The location of the demonstration is at the Allen estate, corner of Tustin avenue and Main street, Tustin.

In case of rain, arrangements have been made to hold the demonstration under cover at Tustin Hills Citrus association packing house.

All growers are invited to attend.

Edward H. Harris, 57, Indiana publisher and press association leader who died in Richmond, Ind., Sunday night, was a frequent visitor in Santa Ana.

Mr. Harris was here last in February of this year, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Druitt, 529 West Santa Clara avenue, for 10 days. He had been secretary of the American Newspaper Publishers association since 1934, and was here this year to confer with Harry Chandler, Los Angeles publisher.

Druitt and Mr. Harris were neighbors in Richmond, and the publisher had visited here annually for the past four years.

Hotel Guest Has
'Racy' Record

Suspicious of a tale that one of his guests was the advance agent for a multi-millionaire race horse breeder who planned to stay at Santa Ana Hotel for the winter, Manager R. L. Bisby today had checked with police.

He found the man, who he said was well dressed and middle-aged, was wanted on a San Francisco petty theft count, and a Los Angeles fictitious check charge.

The hotel visitor had claimed he was here in the interest of Col. E. T. Bradley, prominent eastern breeder. He had ordered several expensive jockey capes from the Katherine shop, 422 North Broadway, according to Katherine Karpus, manager. She said she received a telegram from him, filed from Compton, in which he said he had been called to San Francisco but would be back Thursday.

Where and when were you born? Sebewaing, Michigan; July 9, 1890.

Where did you go to school? Michigan. N. S. P. E., Battle Creek.

What is your hobby? Stamp collecting.

What does Santa Ana need most? Swimming pools.

One-sentence interview: Building will boom again by the first of the year. The temporary slump, it seems to me, is a natural occurrence in the fall when people are thinking more about school supplies and other current necessities than about permanent investments.

Italian Merchants Get Soaked By Taxes
---But Still They Grin at Collector

This is the first of two articles on the lot of the small business man in the major fascist countries.

By ANDRUE BERDING
ROME, (AP)—Mr. Small Businessman in America may complain about the many restrictions and taxes on his business in the land of the free, but just let him come to Italy and hang out his shingle!

Here the government is the far-silent partner of every businessman. Its fingers are on every employee, on every ledger page, every invoice, in every till.

GOVERNMENT EVERYWHERE
The government controls construction of new factories, strictly regulates and taxes the formation of corporations, and has its eye on every process of manufacture, transportation and sale.

A business employing 40 or more men has one clerk who does little else but keep books of government regulations, taxes, demands, etc.

Walls from Washington against increased taxation occasionally echo even as far as Rome, but, Mr. U. S. A. Small Businessman, follow patiently while we put you into business over here. Say the wholesale dry goods business.

FIRST, THREE LICENSES

First of all you get three licenses for your office, one from the governor of Rome, one from the prefect of the province and one from the police commissioner of Rome. Small fee, of course, for each.

With the governor you must make a deposit of $260 to guarantee your seriousness, etc. You must also exhibit a receipt from the tax office showing that you have registered your office there in advance for taxation purposes. If you have a warehouse you must get two more licenses. If you have a garage, still two more.

Then you must be registered with the syndicate of merchants, your employees with the syndicate of employees in commerce.

You cannot yet begin business unless it is proved that for every 10 employees you have one disabled veteran—Italy has been in four wars in the last 25 years—Turkish, World, Ethiopian, Spanish—and there is no specification as to what war he must be a veteran of.

NOW FOR THE TAXES

When business begins, taxes begin. You pay a 14 per cent tax on business profits. Then you pay a complementary tax ranging from one per cent to 10 per cent. This is figured not so much on the income you return as on your "tenor of life," that is, your mode of living.

Next you pay five per cent tax on your store rent.

Then you pay an annual tax on the sign outside your store. It comes to $1.80 a letter, so if your name is Duffelkinkelsteinbaum it's just too bad.

Also there is the little matter of an annual tax of $4.60 per square yard on window signs.

If you discharge an employee, you have to give him 15 days' salary for each year he has been with you.

You must provide the police with a constantly up-to-date list of your employees.

If you have trucks they are out of service two days per year. On one day they are examined by the municipality, another day by the military authorities. They can be sequestered at a moment's notice in case of war.

SAVE YOUR INVOICES

You pay a sales tax of 2½ per cent on everything you buy from the manufacturer. Your retailer pays the same tax on what he buys from you, but his customer does not pay a sales tax, except in the form of higher prices.

You must keep all invoices five years, ready for inspection by the government at any time; all letters, telegrams, ledgers and other business documents for ten years.

If you have issued stock you may not pay more than six per cent dividends. If you make more than that you have to buy government bonds with it.

The prices you charge are closely scrutinized by your syndicate. Some of them are fixed. If you were in the food line practically all would be fixed. Periodically you must supply your syndicate with a list of all your prices.

SALARIES ARE FIXED

The salaries you pay are fixed. Luckily for you they are not high as American salaries go, $40, $45, $50 a month.

Once a year the Fascist party representative comes to you and says: "You seem to be doing well. We have assessed you for the national charities 1000, 2000, 50,000—or whatever it may be—lire."

You say nothing but jot down the figure, then go to the party headquarters and argue that business ain't what she used to be. A friend in your line was assessed last year 1000 lire—$52. He got by with 200.

If you import goods you get involved in a whole labyrinth of restrictions. But that's another story.

And now comes the funny part of it. You'd think, with all the above, that there wouldn't be a store or small business in Rome, but there are thousands. And the small businessmen don't seem to

In Italy, where the government taxes business at every turn, small businesses still flourish—and the consumer pays.

Cooperative System Not
New, Says Chaney

Revelation of plans of self-help cooperatives to organize buying clubs and invade the retail and wholesale business in Orange county, contained in an exclusive article in The Journal last week, today brought an illuminating article written by Homer C. Chaney, well known Santa Ana economist and former banker.

The article was written by Chaney for The Journal at the request of this newspaper. Chaney has made a study of cooperatives part of his comprehensive studies of economic and social conditions throughout the world. He has lectured at the vision of future many cities throughout the nation, and is considered a high authority on such matters.

INSTRUCTIVE ARTICLE

The article will be divided into two parts. The first half follows, and the second installment will be published in The Journal tomorrow.

"Your article describing the self-help cooperatives of Southern California, which appeared in The Journal several days ago, was interesting and instructive. Very few people in our communities here know of the work these cooperatives have been doing, nor how they are operated. Most of us are surprised at results already attained and at the vision of future possibilities. Yet we cannot overlook the fact that the cooperative movement is as old as our industrial system.

100 YEARS OLD

"Over 100 years ago the movement first appeared in England, through stark necessity for a realistic than the urge which initiated the self-help movement during the depression. England has seen the cooperative movement develop to a high degree of effectiveness, doing over one-third of the retail business, 10 per cent of the manufacture and 20 per cent of the wholesale business of that country.

"Sweden since the beginning of the twentieth century has developed her cooperative system to even a higher point of efficiency, until the cooperative stores including the wholesale and production units, actually control the markets of Sweden.

DO BIG BUSINESS

"The movement started in the United States just about the same time as in England. It has not made the inroads in our country as in some of the European countries. Even so, today the cooperatives in this country do quite a bit over one million dollars of business every day in the year.

"In some communities in the Middle West we have the cooperatives actually doing the greatest share of the retail business as well as doing a respectable amount of wholesale and manufacturing business. The retail and manufacture of gasoline products in the Middle West has been a wholesale influence on the whole petroleum industry there. In Wisconsin the retail and wholesale cooperatives among the farmers have been powerful for decades. California has a past history of success and failure in the use of consumers' cooperatives.

NOT NEW

"What I want to stress is that cooperatives are not new. They are older than chain stores, older than department stores, older than mass production and distribution.

be dying of hunger or cutting their throats. They actually appear to be fat and happy. Maybe it's the Italian sunshine—or perhaps they've passed it all on to fellows like the writer who buy from them.

HENDERSON
OF PROBLEM

Enrollment Changes
Cause Transfer

Possible future action to consolidate the Santa Ana elementary school system into fewer and bigger schools was indicated last night in a report by Superintendent Frank A. Henderson to the board of education.

Henderson told the board it had been necessary to transfer two elementary school teachers from one school to another because of unexpected fluctuations in enrollment, and he accompanied the request with a remark this problem probably would be solved by a consolidation.

Mrs. Vera Hughes was transferred from Delhi to Franklin school yesterday and Mrs. Frankie King has shifted from Logan to Wilson school.

Unusually low enrollments at Delhi and Logan schools, apparently because of the great number of Mexican pupils who have been picking walnuts, was given as the reason for the transfer, which also served to relieve crowded conditions in the other two units.

The board did not discuss Henderson's suggestion that attendance fluctuation would be less marked if the elementary school system were consolidated from 14 small schools to eight larger ones, strategically spaced through the city.

Young Artist Entertains At Ebell

An afternoon of light-hearted amusement, with ever and anon a stirring of the heart-strings to deeper emotions was experienced yesterday by members and guests of the Ebell club of the Santa Ana Valley when they were entertained by Adele Neff, "mine de la vie."

The attractive young artist proved herself not only a capable actress in her fulfillment of various roles, but an especially talented writer of dramatic sketches, for her varied program was entirely original.

With a background of the New York theater, concert stage and radio, Miss Neff delighted her audience with her clever impersonations. True, they were obviously designed to please a clubwoman's audience, and many of the more appealing numbers were built on the hypothesis that what is most familiar is most pleasing, yet she managed to inject individual touches that lifted each sketch from the trite.

Starting with a scene based on a typical American family seen at 7:30 in the morning, she proceeded to a trio of feminine characterizations that portrayed the genesis of an American family in feminine roles. Her abrupt transitions from modern flapper to long-suffering mother and then to benign and utterly wise grandmother were remarkably clever and telling.

The same deftness was revealed in her portraits of four typical wives, satirized so that humor verged on pathos. She concluded with a burlesque of contemporary club-activity that roused much mirth.

Miss Neff was presented by Mrs. Roy Shafer, first vice president and program chairman, who presided in the absence of Mrs. W. S. Thomson, president of Ebell.

Business was restricted to brief announcements, one a plea for housing for junior club delegates to the district convention of juniors which will be held in Santa Ana Nov. 5 and 6. Mrs. J. Russell Wilson of the Santa Ana Junior Ebell, district president, made the request.

Delegates to the senior district convocation, scheduled for Nov. 16, 17, and 18 at the Pacific Coast club of Long Beach, were elected. They included the Mesdames R. P. Yeagle, C. P. Boyer, Jessie White, C. E. Bressler, C. V. Davis, Sam Nau, S. A. Moore, B. F. Sharpless, and J. E. Paul.

Alternates named were the Mesdames E. T. Battey, J. W. McCormac, W. B. Hellis, Aldric Workwick, C. F. Crose, W. D. Ranney, Ralph Smedley, Susan Rutherford, and Miss Louise Tubbs.

NOVEMBER DATE ANNOUNCED FOR WEDDING

Romantic plans for a Nov. 11 wedding were discussed Sunday evening when Mrs. D. C. Hazen entertained at a lovely intimate dinner complementing her daughter, Miss Maxine Lucille Hazen, who will marry Howard Clark on that date.

Although most of the group present already knew of the engagement, few of them had heard of the definite date set for the wedding rites. During the last of the evening, Miss Vivian Hazen, younger sister of the bride-to-be, played appropriate numbers on the piano.

Bouquets of dahlias and zinnias from the Hazen garden had been set throughout the home. The table was decorated with yellow and orange candles, a centerpiece of yellow pompon dahlias, table service with yellow flowers, and crystal and black goblets.

Seated at the single table were the honor guests, Miss Hazen, and her fiancé, Mr. Clark; Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, mother of the bride; groom-elect, Gene Clark, brother of the groom-to-be; Miss Vivian Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reagan, and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hazen.

MRS. VIAU IS NAMED HEAD OF QUILL PEN

Election of Mrs. J. U. Viau to the presidency of Quill Pen club was principal event at that organization's annual business session, held last night at the home of its outgoing president, Mrs. Frank Wiley.

At the same time Mrs. Marshall Harnois was elected vice-president to succeed Mrs. Annette Smith, and Mrs. Frank Was was reelected secretary.

No manuscripts were submitted last night, but reports on the year's achievements were given by each member. An interesting letter from Miss Mildred Watson, vacationing in Honolulu, was read.

Present at the affair were the Mesdames Marshall Harnois, Blanche Brown, J. U. Viau, Frances Thompson, Carleton Smith, William Fletcher, Verna Wells, Roy Winchester, Malcolm Macurda, and Frank Was.

TOCAST NEW PLAY THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

Dugan," which will follow close on the heels of Thursday and Friday's tremendous box office success "First Lady," produced by the Santa Ana Community Players, will be held Thursday night at the Episcopal church of the Messiah and Friday night at the Barn. Gladys Simpson Shafer, director of the Players, said today that a great part of the 27 roles to be filled are those of men, and she is anxious to have a good-turn-out of prospective actors and actresses.

Your Baby Book

By EDNA WILSON

Just see what great influence we have on the world—and The Journal, in particular. Usually there are just a couple of columns devoted to the comings and goings and the whims of our very young generation. But today we've swelled up a lot, and we have a whole eight page section devoted to babies. So I feel pretty important today!

Now that I feel important, I don't know quite where to begin with the youngsters because there are so many varied doings of the toddlers this week. And guess what? There's a birthday party! Or maybe two. And that's unusual, isn't it?

Speaking of feeling important, I guess that young Miss Thelma Joan McPherson feels pretty much so right about now. On Sunday she had a great big audience of her parents, her grandparents, and aunts and uncles, and all the rest, to see her christened. And, believe it or not, the man who conducted that charming little ceremony was none other than the well-known Rev. Bob Shuler, who happened in the Methodist church in Los Angeles, and Thelma Joan was just four weeks old on that day.

Thelma, in case you're wondering, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McPherson, and her mother is the former Miss Annette Wright of Santa Ana. So you can well believe that Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright of Santa Ana were right there for the baptismal and family dinner that followed it. We got a little personal information about Thelma, while we were at it, and found out that she's a brunette little lassie and has hazel eyes. She weighed nine pounds, one-half ounce upon arrival, and has since rounded out to a full 11 pounds.

Here's a little announcement that came to us in a round-about way. It seems that Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Atwood (Sandy and Evelyn) are glowing over the latest model of the Atwoods. He's a bouncing baby boy who joined the Atwood clan on last Thursday, Oct. 21, and weighed in at six pounds, 15 ounces. After duly considering all types of names, they finally hit on Charles, (quite a coincidence) so the lad will be known to school teachers in a few years as Charles Edward Atwood. The announcement afforded extra-special interest at Rankins', because Charles Edward's mama worked there for quite a good many years. He'll make his home with his parents at 216 South Shelton street.

While we are on the subject of announcements, we mustn't slip by this one unnoticed, because it's quite an event. The name is Emaline Bingle and she and the stork came to pay a call on Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bingle at the Sargeant Maternity home about last Tuesday. So that makes her just a week old, doesn't it? Anyway, she weighed exactly nine and a half pounds when old Pop Stork brought her, and we hear that she's increasing that regularly because all she does is sleep and eat, especially eat!

Emaline has dark hair, blue eyes, and shows distinct traces of being a member of the Bingle family. She and her mother, who was formerly Mrs. Helen Haneagan of Inglewood are now at home, 1416 West Fourth street. Her daddy is employed with the Southern Counties Gas company here in Santa Ana. Also beaming with joy over Emaline's presence are her grandparents, Mrs. Nora Inman and Mr. and Mrs. F. Costello of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bingle of Huntington Beach.

It's funny how you can get all wound up telling a story. Then have a terrible time jumping from one subject to another. Because right here the most natural thing in the world would be to tell you about a very extra-special baby. So that's what we'll do.

His name is Richard Earl Collins and he's the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Collins of 611 South Broadway. He was born on October 8 at the Sargeant Maternity home and he weighed just exactly eight pounds at that time. Since then he's picked up about six ounces or so somewhere. He's being called Dick by all his family and friends, and is fixed up real comfy in a pretty pink layette, picked just because his mother is partial to pink. There are quite a few toys sitting around waiting for him to show a little interest in something besides eating, stretching and yawning when he awakes. He's very good at night, too, and Mama Collins declares that he sounds just like a duck.

But what makes Dick so extra special swell is that he's the second baby. But—his one and only brother is named Bill and he's 18 years old! That's quite a difference for young Dick to catch up with very soon!

We've got this far without mentioning our customary quota of birthdays. But we'll have to stop that right now. So here goes the first one. It's already a habit with us, these birthday parties, and it's getting to be the same way out at Hoover school on Santa Clara street. All the mamas out that way are finding out what fun it is to have the youngsters celebrate their birthdays at school with their little classmates, so they use that method. Just about every week there's another party in the kindergarten there. We'll bet it's easier for these same mamas, too.

This time young Stanley Reinhaus was the guest of honor and his mother, Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus senior, was the hostess. She came to school last Baby Book day (Tuesday, if you recall) all loaded down with little individual cakes, each with a little lighted candle, and cups of ice cream for the youngsters. Because Stanley's older sister, Margaret, is in the third grade, they invited that class to join the party.

The whole gang, about 35 in all, gathered around Stanley to sing "Happy Birthday to You." Then they played clever little games before eating their ice cream and cake. Miss Maurie Hamill, Stanley's teacher, and Miss Isabel Lindsay, Margaret's teacher, helped Mrs. Reinhaus in directing all the fun during the afternoon.

The other party is one that was given for tiny Miss Carol Jane Rutledge to celebrate her very first natal day. It was given by her grandmother, Mrs. G. F. Battelle, 219 East Twentieth street, and Carol's mother, Mrs. John Rutledge of Stanton, was there to help. The little tot played games and ate luscious birthday cake, while their mothers sewed on a pretty little quilt for Carol's crib.

Two mighty pretty young ladies, Caroline and Helen Crane, attractive little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Crane, played rather important roles on Saturday. They were assistants at the wedding of a young Torrance couple in the Unitarian church here. Caroline and Helen looked like young wood elves in their bright red coats and tiny tams, and they just matched the bright autumn decorations. We'll try to find out more about these two charming youngsters for next Tuesday.

And that goes for one-year-old Clinton Gardner, son of the E. A. Gardner. He's the briefest of notes that he has golden hair, brown eyes, and very, very long golden lashes.

We know a little more about

Pledges Hear Duties For Week

Further duties for already harassed pledges were detailed last night when four of the five Santa Ana Junior college women's service clubs met in members' homes for their fortnightly sessions. Plans were also made for formal candlelight parties to take place at the next meetings.

Moavs did not meet last night, choosing instead to leave their initiation plans for Nov. 8 to an executive committee headed by Miss Evelyn Richards, president. Pledging duties for Moavs of old members, as each one supervises two pledges.

Miss Ruth Budd was hostess to members of the Pioneers in her home at 1511 Durant street, for informal initiation of the 14 pledges. Miss Nina June Robertson, in the dual role of president and pledge mistress, listed duties for the pledges, who will continue wearing miniature airplanes on bright ribbons and will entertain members at luncheon Thursday. Jean Russick will lead the pledges as general chairman of the luncheon. Miss Pauline Cave was in charge of refreshments, assisting Miss Budd in preparing them.

Las Gitanas met with Miss Jane Nalle at 814 South Birch street for a pot-luck supper supervised and served by the pledges. After an enjoyable social hour following the dinner, Miss Betty West led the group in making plans for the club's participation in Penny Fair. Miss Helen Warner, pledge mistress, explained tentative plans for formal initiation Nov. 8.

A busy social season ahead of them was discussed last evening, when Spinsters met at the home of Miss Ann Withersell, 419 South Birch street. Plans were made for participation in Penny Fair, and for a Mothers' tea to be held Friday afternoon at the home of Miss La Vonne Frandsen, 2003 North Ross street, complimenting mothers of the members. Following the usual custom, candy was served during the meeting, rather than refreshments, and the meeting concluded with informal initiation.

JUNIORS PLAN PART IN NOV. 11 PARADE

Completing preparations and drill work for the Armistice Day parade to be held in Fullerton on Nov. 11, members of the American Legion auxiliary juniors met Saturday at the home of Mrs. R. H. Sandon, 1410 West Washington street.

The session was attended by about 20 girls, holding their first meeting since installation two weeks ago. The girls planned their blue and gold costumes with matching poms to be worn in the parade, and they drilled for some time in front of the house.

Mrs. Ruth Jellis assisted in the session, and Mrs. Ethel Brown, sponsor for social events, helped make plans for future parties. Mabel Louise Casteix, new president, appointed Phyllis Sandon as publicity chairman, and Mary Alice Eldund as cards and flowers chairman.

Announcement was made that the tuberculosis fund will be sponsored at the December meeting, and Mrs. Florence Smith of Anaheim, department junior chairman, will speak at the November meeting. A Halloween party will be held at the home of Mrs. Ethel Brown this evening, beginning at 7 p. m.

Four new members joined the group. These include Barbara Jones, Betty Howe, Evelyn Wells, and Betty Corcoran. Teresa Brainer of the Brea chapter was a guest. Assisting during the afternoon meeting and early dinner were Mrs. Mabel Casteix, Mrs. Florence Robinson, Mrs. Ethel Brown, Mrs. Ruth Jellis, Mrs. Lillian Edgar, and Mrs. Alice Roehm.

CANCEL TEA

The Country club tea scheduled for Friday afternoon in the clubhouse will be cancelled for this month because of other conflicting affairs, according to Mrs. H. B. Rapp.

Miss Louise Wheeler. She's three years old, and calls Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Wheeler, who live near Irvine, Daddy and Mama. Louise is very fond of her gentle little blue bunnies. She loves her dollies a lot, too, and tries to sing them to sleep several times each day. Afternoon is her favorite time of day, because then she can have a teaparty with her dollies and a toy bear and a toy kitty seated around a small table as her interested little guests.

And turning the last page of the Baby Book for this week, we find an adorable little girl, Mary Etta Gaspar, by name. She's just three months old and is the only chickie of Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Gaspar, who live at 1115 South Parton street. Mary Etta has blonde hair, blue eyes, and five pretty little teeth. She's rather large for her age—22 pounds, were told—she's got her hair and blue eyes, and she can't walk yet. Her vocabulary is pretty much limited to "bye-bye," and she only says that when she's just in the mood.

Mary Etta likes other babies, and plays just lots with her young cousin JoAnne Lamb. About the last of the summer she cultivated quite a taste for the beach—especially the sand—and consequently has a golden "tite tan. Besides, she's pretty fond of going in general, and isn't awfully particular just how she does it!

And that's just about all for this evening. And since cold season is with us right now we'll just say, "Diddle-dite."

Betrothal Is Revealed At Party

The news that Miss Nettie Crutchfield, assistant county probate officer, and one of the most popular members of the Court-house staff, is to marry Clyde Geeting of Harvey, Ill. was revealed last night to a group of intimate friends of many years standing when they were invited to a party given by Miss Nora Allen and Miss Mabel Dixon.

Information as to the betrothal was found in the center of the beautiful ice-cream moulds representing engagement rings, and on tiny heart-shaped nut cups whereon were pictures of the couple. Their wedding date has not been definitely decided upon, but will be in December. Miss Crutchfield plans to go east for the ceremony.

Last night's hostesses used a pink and white color scheme for decorations, with lovely flowers and a delicious refreshment course. Many informal games and conversation occupied the evening.

Guests were the Mesdames Frank Carter, Bert Skiles, Parker Wilson, Glenn Thorne, George Campbell, Ruth Sawyer, Royden Ozmun, L. D. Meggers, Miss Pearl Galloway, Miss Carrie Files, Miss Corinne Clemens, and Miss Lois Detwiler of Santa Ana; Mrs. Ruby Vineyard, Mrs. Marie Vineyard, and Mrs. Quay Van Heck of Pasadena; and Miss Nettie Neff of Salinas.

AUTUMN MOTIF USED IN WEDDING RITES

Autumn foliage and berries turned the Unitarian church into a veritable woodland glade Saturday afternoon for a colorful and charming ceremony uniting two prominent southland young people, Miss Helen Florence McMaster and Beldon Lidyard, both of Torrance.

The altar was banked with gold and crimson foliage flanked by urns of crimson berries and brilliant autumn flowers. The Rev. Julia N. Budlong, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, assisted by little Miss Caroline Crane who lighted the candles.

Preceding the bridal party down the aisle was small Helen Crane as flower girl, who made a path of gold and crimson leaves for the bride from the entrance to the altar. Both the young girls were dressed in bright red coats and tams, perfectly matching the fall appointments of the rites.

The bride wore a charming blue tailored traveling suit, with a corse of gardenias and other flowers. Attending the ceremony as matron of honor was Mrs. G. A. Hatfield of Torrance, assisted in a black silk ensemble with black accessories and gardenias.

G. A. Hatfield was best man, and music for the ceremony was supplied by Bill Beaman of Santa Ana, who played the two popular wedding marches and other incidental music. Accompanying the bride were her father, J. E. McMaster, and a sister, Ruth McMaster, both of Torrance. Also included in the wedding party were her mother, Mrs. Jack Franklin of Mr. Franklin of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwards of Oregon City, old friends of the groom.

The bride and groom will be at home to friends at 916 Cota avenue, Torrance, until the first of the year when they will move to San Diego. Mr. Lidyard is connected with the U. S. Marines and is now stationed on the U. S. S. Idaho.

CELEBRATE 42ND ANNIVERSARY AT DINNER

The forty-second wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Neale, married Oct. 24, 1895 in Kentucky, was quietly but happily celebrated Sunday evening when they and their daughter, Mrs. Bert Conliffe, the latter's daughter Jean, and Mrs. Edith Schanley had a little dinner party at the Hacienda.

The absence of Mr. Conliffe and of Mr. and Mrs. Neale's only son, Edgar, was regrettable, but those present enjoyed themselves in pleasant reminiscences. Mrs. Neale wore a lovely corsage of gardenias with her smart black and white frock.

FRIENDS FETE Y. W. SECRETARY

An informal tea was the occasion chosen by friends of Miss Margaret Fine to bid her farewell following the announcement of her coming departure. Miss Fine, who will move to San Pedro to become office secretary of the Y. W. C. A., was presented with a portable radio by the guests. Miss Margaret Maroney received the girls at her home at 1912 North Greenleaf last Saturday.

TORRANCE VISITOR

Miss Hazel Briney of Torrance spent the week-end with the P. L. Briney family.

Mary Stoddard "Deluded" May Be at Fault in Ignoring Pleasures and Desires of Fiance

Perhaps "Deluded" was to blame for the mixup in her life and that of the man she was to marry! That possibility, which seemed to escape most of us, is voiced today by "Teacher," who suggests that perhaps "Deluded" paid too much attention to having a fine home, with lovely furnishings, and not enough to her fiancé's own personality and desires. Perhaps if she had been a little more human, a little more ready to satisfy his whims, he wouldn't have strayed. Who knows? There's another suggestion here, too.

"Teacher" also suggests that the man should legally adopt his son and provide for his support, but that marriage would probably be just another mistake.

Dear Miss Stoddard: I hasten to write concerning the problem of "Deluded," because it is just another chapter to the letter I sent a day or so ago.

This time, we have a couple whose early selection of mates proved the correctness of that selection by the many years of undisturbed companionship. In the woman's heart lingers the desire to be true to that love, but the man seems to have branched off from the trail.

This time it was (to my mind) a sordid wish for possession of worldly goods—a lot, a house, furniture—perhaps stronger than part of the woman, which prevented consummation of love in marriage.

I do not blame the man for seeking for a woman who cared more for his pleasure and gratification of his perfectly normal biological urges.

His aims are nice, but by no means an essential of happy living.

This couple long since attained a proper age for mating—they should have married, working together, as man and wife, to buy the lot, house and furniture.

Marriage is a partnership—if a man does not want his wife to work, and shoulders the responsibility of her support, then she should stay in such quarters as he can provide, doing the thousand and one little things that go to make a home out of any place two persons live, who love each other.

There are only two things to do—marry or quit—which this couple have to decide for themselves. We all marry "for better or worse"—we all take chances—for every marriage is an adventure into an uncharted country. They yet have chance for a happy marriage and a comeback into the happy companionship that once was theirs.

They have to face squarely—as all of us do—the realities of life. They will have to forget the forgiven past—put it out of their minds. There is the baby—he admits it is his—then he should help support that child and leave it in the care of its own mother. I do not believe in forcing marriage in cases like this—I've seen too many cases of that.

The child can be legally adopted by this man who acknowledges it is his. By natural law and human kindness to the helpless, he is bound to help with this product of his own act. In cases like these, if the ones involved could only be unselfish and lovingly meet the situation, considering everyone's feelings and best interests, life would run smoother for all concerned. And it is not the neighbors' business although they will talk about it. All idols have clay feet. It is wrong to worship any man. I would say this young woman is nursing a small spark of love, which, given fuel and attention, will flame into warmth. If it is merely a pile of warm ashes—she will have to dump the ashes and start a new fire—for another man—if she really wants a man instead of a place of creature comforts for herself. She must first decide what is most valuable to her. The man has to decide whether he wants her as a wife, to whom he would be faithful. Men should be made to support their share in home building and keeping. Train boys to be husbands—girls to be wives.

"TEACHER."

HIGH SCHOOL CLUBS LIST NEW PLEDGES

Following a week filled with charming afternoon rush teas, designed to compliment prospective members of the five girls' service clubs of Santa Ana High school, announcement was made of a list of 23 new members informally initiated into the groups.

With the exception of the Alphas, formal initiations have not yet taken place. A formal candle-light ceremony was conducted in the home of Miss Dorothy Flaherty to pledge ten new members to the Alphas, an honorary club open to those holding highly elective and appointive positions on the campus.

Positions which fill the requirements are officials of the Girls' league, Girls' Athletic association, student body; editors of the Generator and Ariel, head usher, state, head song leader, and members of the honor society. Those joining the Alphas this semester are Patricia Emerson, Iris Crawford, Frances Keeton, Margaret Maroney, Celina McBurney, Patsy Miller, Elaine Owings, Roberta Shafer, Ena Smith, and Harriet Spicer.

Four members each were pledged by Zeta Ts and W. T. Ts. In the former group are Elinor Doyle, Louise Kirchner, Sylvia Pope, and Cecelia Telef, while the latter group of pledges include Cleo Adrian, Sadye Mason, Vivian Hazen, and Jean Thwaite.

June Gates, Betty Lacy, and Alice McKee are new members of Beta Phi Delta. Completing the lists are Betty Timmons and Jean Dowds, new members of Epsilon Naus.

Initial Rites Are Read In New Chapel

Departure of Mr. and Mrs. William Edgar Le Blanc for Schenectady, N. Y., last night, where they will make their home, brought with it full details of the couple's wedding Saturday evening, a quiet event but one of great beauty.

The bride, formerly Miss Carolyn Elise Billingsley and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlowe Billingsley of 805 North Flower street, has been popular in the younger set of Santa Ana for many years, and attended both high school and junior college here.

Particular significance was given to her marriage because of its charming setting—the new Colonial chapel at the corner of Seventeenth and Sycamore street. Her father had been construction foreman on the newly completed building, and hers was the first wedding to be solemnized there. Beautiful flowers added still further charm to the lovely chapel, as did the melodious songs sung by Miss Dorothy Flintham. The Rev. Perry G. Schrock performed the nuptials.

Miss Billingsley, wearing a frock of cream satin over which spread the lovely lace that had graced the wedding gown of her mother with a veil borrowed from Mrs. Everett Berry of Orange, was attended by Miss Betty Wakeham who wore deep pink with a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. LeBlanc, a resident of Schenectady, was attended by James Kelly of Long Beach.

A reception for half a hundred close friends and relatives was held later at the Billingsley home, where the bride's mother, in wine-hued velvet with a striking corsage of tuberous begonias, received. She was assisted in serving the handsomely three-tiered wedding cake by Miss Eleanor and Miss Dorothy Flintham, Mrs. Helen Flintham and Mrs. Edith Osborn.

DUAL PARTY OBSERVES TWO BIRTHDAYS

Dual celebrations were in order Sunday night when Mrs. Carrie H. Watson, 1011 Spurgeon street, was hostess at a lovely dinner party complementing her son, Ernest A. Watson, and her son-in-law, J. D. Douglas of Newport Beach, on their birthday anniversaries.

A beautiful table had been prepared in an alcove, decorated with gold and rust chrysanthemums; place cards and nut cups carrying out the autumn theme. A delicious dinner menu was served to the guests, after which the entire group went to the Ernest Watson home on Yorba street, Tustin, where gifts were presented to both honor guests.

BIGGEST ATHLETIC CROWD

Strange as it seems, corn husking is one of America's major sports. In 1936 the National Corn Husking Bee drew the biggest crowd ever to witness an athletic contest in the U. S., and the second biggest ever to gather for an American sporting event!

Over 160,000 persons turned out on the muddy fields of Alva Oylers Licking County, Ohio, farm—November 10, 1936—to see 18 contestants husk corn in a grueling, 80-minute battle for the 13th annual championship. The only larger crowd that ever turned out for an American sporting contest was the one of 168,000 spectators who witnessed the 1936 Memorial Day automobile race at Indianapolis. This, of course, was not an athletic contest—leaving the husking bee still top attraction in that division.

Winner of the 1936 husking bee was Iowan Carl Carlson, brother of the 1935 winner, Elmer. With 21.04 bushels, Carl husked little more than half the corn his brother husked in winning the contest the year before.

Seven Dynamic Ideas

Anybody who may be inclined to think that progress has come to a halt, or that opportunities for ingenuity are no longer at hand, or that young or old men no longer have a chance to do things in the world, ought simply to check up a bit.

New developments, inventions, products, processes and jobs are coming along every week—for those who look for them.

For example, in the current issue of the Weekly Observer, the following interesting business novelties are listed:

Rubber Fenders. These are becoming standard equipment on London buses, and are soon to be introduced on passenger cars and trucks. Based on weight and price, these rubber fenders are comparable with 18-gauge steel.

Motion Picture Screen. New and inexpensive method enlarges and improves picture images, carrying visual field to extreme edge and eliminating frame effect.

"Barrel" Engines. Airplane and motorcycle motor has cylinders parallel to crankshaft; expected to produce 120 horsepower with weight ratio of about two and one-half pounds per horsepower.

Metal Cutting. Liquid oxygen directed in fine stream makes cutting torch reported to cut deeper, smoother and thinner than old gas process. Also faster.

Phosphate Fertilizer. Government action aimed to develop great fertilizer resources in western states.

Precision Instruments. "Profilometer," already in use in one automobile plant, is device which measures deviations of one-millionth of an inch.

Corrosion Resistant Tubes. New aluminum-chromium-molybdenum alloy saves oil refinery tubes from sulphur corrosion.

There are seven ideas which are going places. Maybe there is one equally good kicking you in the shins.

Living on Borrowed Time

The end of his gamble with life came suddenly for Les Bruneman, mysterious Los Angeles underworld figure, when 11 gangster bullets crashed into his body.

Those bullets settled his debt with existence, and he expected them to, for as he left the hospital after recovering from the last attack, he said: "I'm living on borrowed time."

As we read about Bruneman's murder, our eye caught the column next to it. Here was the story of two boys, each 17 years old, who were arrested in Orange county on the charge of looting a store.

Those boys might not realize it, but they are living on borrowed time, just as Bruneman was.

Gangster bullets wiped out Bruneman; but if they hadn't, sooner or later his activities in the underworld of chance probably would have enmeshed him with the law.

Every criminal is living on borrowed time. Sooner or later he has to repay the debt to society in a prison cell or perhaps even in the lethal chamber.

Young people who leave the straight and narrow path should check themselves and be sure they are not borrowing time which they will have to pay back later on in jail or prematurely under a tombstone.

Uncle Sam, G-Man

When the effective weapons of modern warfare came into being they assured one thing: that ambitious empire-builders would undertake to use them for the purpose of building empires.

It was beyond the range of human possibilities that such a wondrous new war toy as the airplane, or the speeding tank, or the modern submarine should not cause to turn up, sooner or later, a few "leaders" who would have to test them out.

The combination of fast automobile and machine gun developed a new school of individual outlaw in the persons of Dillinger and his pals and their fast-diminishing imitators.

The forerunners of the modern breed, Jesse James among the individualists and Kaiser Wilhelm among the saber-wielders, had their day and went their way.

The modern empire-builders—who can't resist trying their fine new war toys—will eventually meet their match.

Uncle Sam will do well to be the G-man of the western hemisphere, and let Sherlock Holmes, Scotland Yard and Charlie Chan deal with the obstreperous upstarts of Europe and of Asia.

Speaking of Actors

We members of Hollywood's "public" like to believe that acting is a fine art. Actors like Paul Muni, George Arliss, Fredric March, Bette Davis, Luise Rainer and others have let us know that there is such an art.

But when Hollywood holds out a sheaf of contracts to a young lady far across the ocean, whose picture has been in the papers and whose husband was unfortunately (or fortunately) taken prisoner of war, we are forced to wonder whether acting has anything to do with the case.

Possibly Hollywood should develop a sideshow, an auxiliary to its main enterprise, and show us the Miss So-and-So's, the wives of condemned war prisoners, notorious heart-breakers and the various other comet personalities of the front pages in that sideshow. Then there would be no necessity to pretend that they are actors or actresses.

Conclusion After Making Trip

If you could sell for 50 cents a dozen all the cars on the highway which refuse to dim their lights as you pass, a trip from Santa Ana to San Francisco, including champagne with every meal, would cost you nothing, and you'd return with cash in your pockets.

Wonder What
Tin Hat
Boys Think?

By

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—On close inspection the trouble in Rhode Island which the national guard was called out to suppress an imaginary insurrection at the Narragansett horse track turns out to be a frowsy row between a temperate governor, who needs a minor league White House Tommy to write his speeches and tell him what not to do and a juicy gambling monopoly, whose manager didn't know when he was well off.

Governor Quinn sacrificed such dignity as he might have enjoyed, and Walter O'Hara, his enemy in the case, might have gained prestige if he had had it in his character to take advantage of the governor's rage. Instead O'Hara hollered "copper!" as the saying goes in the underworld, with which the horse-running and gambling business is intimately connected, and that is an unpardonable error.

Track operators and gambling men who do business with politicians have a code of sorts, an article of which forbids man to blow the whistle no matter what the apparent provocation. If they buy a politician and he proves unreliable they usually charge it to experience and let it go at that.

WORSE POLITICS
But when O'Hara fell to fighting with the governor he began to blab about the money which he had passed around in Rhode Island politics, and that is not only bad form but worse politics, for it presents the reform element a ready-made campaign for repeal of the racing law.

O'Hara's own words, efficiently exploited, would be sufficient to abolish racing, and with it the profits from which he derives in dividends, salary and expense account one of the really great American incomes. His salary and expense allowance alone are $75,000 a year.

But the fight itself is local and of only passing interest outside Rhode Island and Boston.

Of real importance is the governor's call to the young men of the national guard to turn out in their tin hats to take his part in a cheap fight in bad weather and at serious personal inconvenience. The military demonstration may cost the taxpayers $100,000, and that is bad enough, considering the frivolous issue, but Quinn hadn't even considered that the soldiers, as citizens, might be thinking thoughts to themselves as they walked their posts in a heavy autumn rain or slept under canvas almost within sight of their homes. Young men join the national guard for a number of attractions, but their basic motive is patriotism, and in any emergency in which the peace and safety of their state or the nation are endangered they are always raring to go. They have behaved well in labor troubles in the last few years, and were very helpful in the Ohio river valley during the flood.

HUEY'S OLD TRICK
But Huey Long, a prize example, developed a habit of yelling for the soldiers wherever some angry rebel threatened to slap his face, and he used them several times for duty which was strictly political and illegal.

In such cases the men leave their jobs and homes at the governor's call, whatever the governor's politics or whatever his motives, and they have not the option to refuse duty on the ground that the governor is using them for purposes not included in any reasonable understanding of their oath.

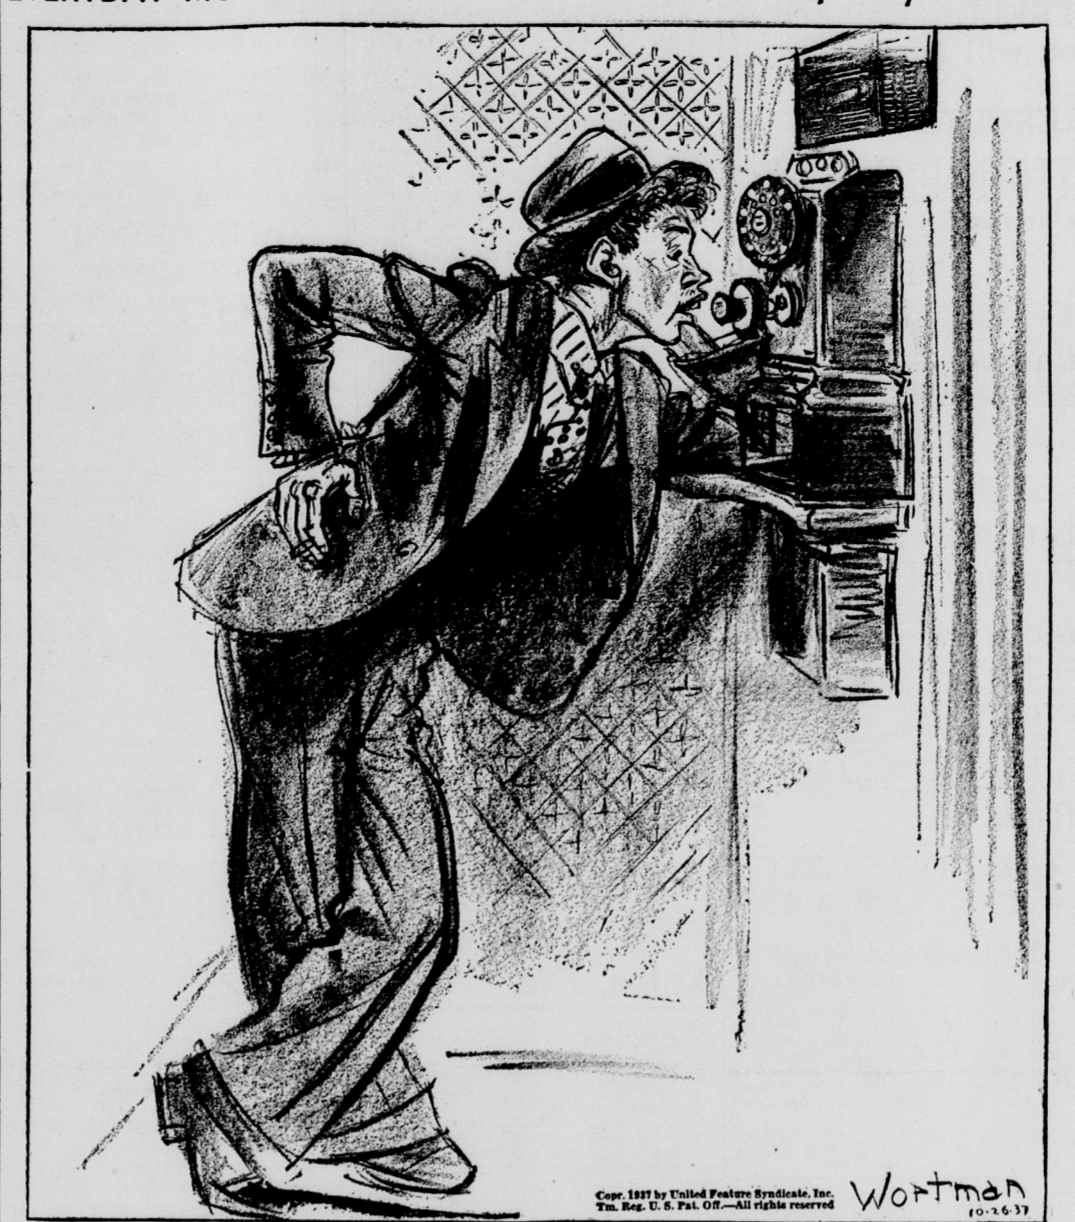

Such use of the governor's authority is sure to hurt the morale of the national guard, cheapen its authority and eventually lead to problems of disaffection and nominal mutiny. The point is worth mixing just now, because the disturbed condition of politics is likely to turn up many crackpot governors who don't know or don't care what the national guard is for.

No soldier should be allowed to carry a musket in support of a political faction with which he is in sympathy or required to serve against a faction which he favors. No guardsman should be turned out in any factional scrap except to put down real disorder, and that with an impartial hand.

BRIGHT MOMENTS
Catherine the Great, as Empress of Russia, had forbidden any trade with France. At the time, visiting her in the palace, was the Countess d'Artois. The day before she was to depart for home, she received a large package from Catherine, along with a letter which read: "Your royal highness wishes doubtless to make some small presents to the people who have done you service during your stay here. But as you know all commerce and communication has been forbidden with your happy France, and you will look in vain to buy any trinkets in the city; there are none in Russia, save in my cabinet. I hope your highness will accept these from your affectionate friend Catherine."

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

A "jack of all trades" is a pretty handy thing to have around the house but they never seem to get very far in a financial way. People who seem to be making a big success in the world today are the ones who picked out one certain line and followed through with it.

One of the best examples I know of is my Uncle Chig's parrot. This parrot had nothin' for a playmate but a dog and he got so he could imitate a dog better than any parrot in the world. Uncle Chig went into vaudeville with the parrot and was makin' a lot of money but one day he got to thinkin' about how much money he could make if this parrot could imitate a lot of animals as good as he did the dog. So he took him out on a big farm where he had a lotta animals to listen to.

Today this parrot ain't worth a dime to Uncle Chig. All the parrot can say is "Quack-a-doodle-moo."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

The tempo of WPA spending, this program would be received by business men with enthusiastic hosannas.

They have long been clamoring for repeal or revision of the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes. However, the treasury has just as vigorously been resisting this action, and would strongly urge the President against it if he indicated serious consideration of such a move.

RATE BOOST
The railroads' demand for a freight rate boost has been pending before the ICC for a year. Its failure to act, one way or the other, unquestionably has been an unsettling influence. Some experts claim this is a major factor in the slump.

Whether this is true or not, administrative agencies are using the procrastination of the commission as a potent argument for the President's government reorganization scheme.

Their point is that while he is held responsible for economic conditions, he is without power to compel the various independent agencies, such as the ICC, to move rapidly to bolster up business.

INSCRIPTIONS
Side by side on the picture-crowded walls of the White House press room hang two photographs, each with a characteristic inscription interesting in its own way.

One reads: "Very Sincerely, Calvin Coolidge."
The other: "To the White House correspondents from their still distant victim, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

WANTED: A MIRACLE
It will be a miracle if anything comes out of the AFL-CIO peace confab.

Among the rank and file in both camps there is widespread demand for harmony. The average unionite is weary of the out-throat bickering and wants peace. But the obstacles in the path of an agreement are well nigh insurmountable.

The two major hurdles are:
1. Fierce personal vendettas among the rival leaders.
2. Equally fierce jurisdictional differences.

The general public has little realization of the depth of hatred toward one another among the competing labor chiefs. Their feuds are as venomous as a king cobra's. They not only despise one another personally but clash furiously in private ambitions and theoretical viewpoints.

CIO's Lewis, Hillman and Bridges are worlds apart in fundamental outlook from Green, Frey and Hutcheson of the A. F. of L. They can no more mix than water and oil. Even if it were possible to bring them together again the rapprochement wouldn't last. It would be only a short time before they would again be at each other's throats.

The jurisdictional problem might have been fairly easily solved a year ago. At that time the CIO had not invaded the craft union field. But now it is deeply imbedded in this federation preserve and has formed more than a score of competing unions.

How this tangle can be unraveled no one knows. Neither side has any thought of surrendering its affiliates to the other. Unless some solution can be found there is no chance of a get-together.

CIO STRATEGY
CIO moguls have no intention to return to the A. F. of L. fold under

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is imperative. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion. The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

What Other Editors Say

THE NAZI AFFRONT

The Hitler regime's encouragement of anti-democratic Nazi clubs in the United States is what former National Commander Harry W. Colmery of the American Legion called it, "an affront to every American citizen."

It is an interference by one nation in the domestic affairs of another in a fashion which makes it a distinctly unfriendly act.

And it assumes that American citizens of German descent, one of the finest elements in our population, are so stupid as to prefer the Nazi to the American form of government and so depraved as to subscribe to the treachery advocated by Hitler in his autobiography.

Yes, it is an affront. But it should be viewed not only by every American liberal. It is the best means of creating sentiment against totalitarianism in general and the Nazi brand in particular. It is more effective than any denunciation that could be made by any democratic speaker or newspaper.

Another welcome thing about the Nazi organization and propaganda is the low-grade type of person to whom they appeal. The leaders have the familiar odor of the petty racketeer, and the suckers who join are necessarily small-minded ignoramus with a hatred of tolerance and liberty. They are of the rank that periodically organizes to violate the principles of democracy. If there is a person of eminence in this movement, his name has been carefully concealed.

But while it is natural and legitimate to be contemptuous of these people, let there be no attempt to suppress them or the Italian dunces who join societies to preach fascism or the mental adolescents who yearn for Stalin's lovely system.

In the first place, they have a right to advocate what they please. In the second place, their numbers and influence are negligible. In the third place, the more they talk, the less attractive their notions become to the American populace.

It is well for the American Legion to denounce dictatorship. It would be a disservice for the Legion to try to muzzle the advocates of dictatorship. — Kansas City Journal-Post.

A Southern father was introducing his family of boys to a visiting governor.

"Seventeen boys!" exclaimed the governor. "And all Democrats, I suppose?"

"All but one," said the father proudly. "They're all good Democrats but John, the little rascal. He got to reading."

Bill—"My girl got her nose broken in three places."

Harry—"Well, she should keep out of those places."

IT'S ODD But It's Science

NEW YORK. (AP)—A rat, says B. E. Holsendorf, U. S. Public Health Service, is able to "gnaw through medium soft sheets of aluminum."

That is about the acme of the rat's achievements to date in trying to keep close to man. The rat has always lived with man, preferring his food to any other.

Science is trying to rat-proof civilization. But the Public Health Service estimates that there is still one rat for every human in civilized area. A special reason for American interest in walling off the rodents at the moment is the bubonic plague.

That is the Black Death which kept away from man. But the squirrels can infect, and rat fleas will give man the plague.

Rat proofing is possible. Mr. Holsendorf says. Architectural design is almost as important as materials. Rats, he finds, easily gnaw through lead. Steel and concrete baffle them.

McINTYRE

NEW YORK. — New York's scrappiest citizen is undoubtedly ousted Jimmy Johnston of Madison Square Garden. Ever since he came over from Ireland he has been strutting about with a chip on his shoulder—and adding fireworks to the world of boxing.

A bantam with an always tightly clenched cigar he puts everybody on the defensive. I have known him casually for years, but when I meet and pass the usual salutation I always rather expect him to bristle up and inquire: "Want to make something of it?"

He has been in a constant row with the Garden management and his contempt for the boxing commission, individually and collectively, will turn the air blue at any time. Sports writers like him, for he has been a peg upon which to hang many bright yarns.

Johnston, in leaving the Garden, will promote boxing on his own. His particular star is the nimble Bob Pastor. Nobody knows the fight game better and none has been more successful in picking the winner in big championship bouts the past ten years.

City slicker: Dwight Fiske is reputedly paid a round $1000 a week by a fashionable snack bar for singing—or rather talking—songs not far removed from ballads of the bordello. Glossily dinner jacketed, his audiences are chiefly of Chucky Knickerbocker's haute monde, who frequently, as sophisticated as they are and as Dorothy Parker conscious, giggle in a sort of off-key confusion at the double entendre. Fiske is the debonaire Gold Coast version of the tieless, pasty faced fellow with the drooping cigaret we used to see crouching over the piano in the shuttered house across the track giving "Room 202" the business!

Dog shop owners are ever pleased to permit responsible dog fanciers to take home any pet that strikes their fancy for a few days to see how it fits in the household routine. Almost invariably taking the hog home clinches the sale. Not many dog lovers nose, as often happens, his breathing was labored. Yet I decided to take him on trial a few days. But after 24 hours I returned him hastily, for he kept the household awake snoring. Another 24 hours and he would have had me, even though he outwheezed a sick colic.

Now and then I go up to Harlem's Savoy ballroom with Henry Sell to watch the colored dancers easy the Lindy Hop, the Susie Q., the Shag and the more recent Big Apple. Around midnight the dancing takes on something of the barbaric frenzy of the deep jungle—providing an interesting study in atavism. Young bucks and gals weave, swing, sway and roll eyes much like the rituals of a tribal dance. And their endurance is astonishing. They will dance as long as the music plays without showing slightest fatigue. At the Savoy there is little drinking and few demerits of the dance halls—most of the dancers are working girls getting exhilaration out of sheer joy in dancing.

I know no one in the Manhattan scene who plucks more genuine enjoyment out of living than Col. Joseph Hartfield. A celebrated international lawyer and head of an important legal firm, he is a bachelor who knows everybody and is always present at every important affair.

A native of Henderson, Ky.—home of Audubon—Col. Hartfield is a teetotaler but one of the town's most distinguished gourmets and almost nightly in one of the high grade restaurants is a generous host. He is also a regular first nighter and patron of the big athletic events, and memory serves donated the football stadium to his alma mater, the University of Virginia. He is a frequent visitor to European capitals, where he is as well known as he is in New York. Another well-known New Yorker from Henderson, Ky., is the photographer, Edwin Galloway.

Chinese No Likee L. A. Progress

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — Steel framework of the clock tower of the new union railroad passenger terminal, rising 250 feet above the street, is a grim reminder to residents of Los Angeles' Chinatown that in a very short time they will be forced to seek new homes. Industrial district is being demolished to make way for a new mercantile center, one of the most important projects undertaken by Los Angeles in years.

But to Len Gee Low, patriarchal head of the Chinese community, his tea shop putting up a chimney upon a long-stemmed pipe, it is not so good.

"Me clone Los Angeles long time ago," he says. "Sleest here-velly quiet—nobody bother Len Gee Lowing all different now. Bang—bang—bang—bang—bang—bang—in China. Plenty too much noise."

ZANESVILLE, O. (AP) — Folks stayed close in their own balliwick in this section along in the 1850's, to judge from a copy of an old paper discovered here. The paper, dated March 26, 1856, relates that spring weather had produced mud up to five feet deep in the principal streets. The editor recommended plank sidewalks. Another item concerned a proposal for carrying mail to Marietta, O., a time of two days. News from far places consisted of squibs on Fenny Lind singing in New York and troop movements in the Crimean war.

"Last year we had only three fatalities among 16,000 deer hunters but this year we would like to get by without accidents," says Farvin. "And if hunters must drink strong liquor, they should do so moderately," he added. "Liquor and bullets do not mix successfully."

ORCHESTRA
WILL LAUNCH
NEW SEASON

A brilliant concert schedule for the series in the 1937-22 season will be ushered in by the Federal Music project symphony orchestra Nov. 4 in the Santa Ana High school auditorium. It was announced by project supervisor, Leon Eckles, that the orchestra will be the performance of the symphony in E minor, known as "The New World" symphony, written by Anton Dvorak in 1893.

"While this great symphony has been performed on countless concert programs since then," Eckles said, "it is interesting to recall the storm of criticism its presentation caused among music critics of that day."

NATIONAL MUSIC
The criticism was caused by Dvorak having published his belief that songs of the American negro contained a sure foundation for the development of a new music, and that a cultivation of them on the part of American composers might result in the creation of an American school of composition.

"That Dvorak used primitive American music in the development of his symphony was openly declared by his critics and still remains a point of debate."

"While nowhere in the symphony is any of the negro melodies used verbatim, yet all the folk lore and shows how deeply Dvorak was influenced by his study of primitive American melodies, both Indian and negro. The important thing, however, is the great beauty of the symphony, the ideal themes are handled and its melodic appeal. Written in four inspired movements, it has remained a joy to its listeners and a monument to this composer's genius."

CHILD UNITS
In conjunction with a pre-enthusiastic program, to be announced in full at a later date, the project of three children with a group of three numbers with an orchestral accompaniment, selected by Eckles and the chorus, trained by Dorothy Page Harper, are composed of talented instrumentalists and singers, most of whom are from Orange county. The children, have made 102 public appearances throughout the county since their inception in November, 1935. Other work, equally wide in scope, to which both groups have given considerable time, has been the performance of purposes for instruction in the city and county schools."

He Really Means Walnuts

If the neighbor's walnuts fall in your yard, scoop 'em up. They're yours, says the law. If they fall in the street, they're yours if you get there first.

This was District Attorney W. F. Menton's answer today to walnut-hungry persons who haven't trees in their own yards. On the street, they're yours if you get there first.

WPA AID FOR
DISCUSSED

Though action was delayed until next meeting, the Santa Ana board of education last night entered into a heated discussion of the desirability of WPA supervision of school playgrounds in the late afternoon.

The board had been asked to continue sponsoring the program, which otherwise would expire Dec. 31, for another year. Action was postponed until Sunday afternoon, when the board could gather figures on attendance at the playgrounds under the present setup.

The trustees were sharply divided in their opinions of the "extra-curricular" recreation program. Dr. Margaret Baker and President C. W. Smith were among those who plan for what they asserted was its deterrent effect on juvenile delinquency.

Hays moved that the board continue sponsoring the plan for another year, but the motion was defeated. The board then agreed to make a more thorough study of the value of present WPA supervision.

RANKIN'S
ADDS SIX
DIVISIONS

Clever mothers have long-since come to the realization that style is not just a matter for mother and daddy to consider in their wardrobe and personal appointments alone.

Their adorable toddlers, their sturdy kindergartners, their long-legged grammar school youngsters, and their slim sophisticated teenagers have to have to be dressed in harmony and to the minute—and at the same time, the selection of their wardrobes has to be made with efficiency and dispatch.

For these reasons, parents all over the country have sought with intrigued interest the latest announcement at Rankin's service—announcement that six separate and highly individual shops have been established just to cater to that younger element that is so vitally important to the mother.

The third floor of Rankin's has been entirely remodelled in modern style. Soft shades of green and bamboo alternated with striking full-length mirrors have added smartness and importance to the complete lines of young people's clothes that have been added to Rankin's.

Each department, moreover, is a separate unit. Little Miss Debutante no longer has to parade through counters of department after department, and the underthings she wants.

Sophisticated young mothers, by the same token, find themselves able to proceed directly to that department where their needs will be met. "Baby Things" for infants up to one year of age, new's other department are the "Tots' Togs," brief and cunning suits and for the more-to-be-happy, the "Brother's Shop" and "Sister's Shop" for the youngsters up to six years old. And verging into the more sophisticated, where mothers may just what they wish, and choose just what cat-bies their eyes are the "Girls' Shop" for from seven to 14 years, and the "Sub-Deb Shop," where even just what they want up to size 16.

It's a new departure, and a further evidence of Rankin's attention to the individual needs of each one of its customers!

Lions Will Hear

Dr. Osgood Hardy, history professor at Occidental college who visited Loren Mead of Santa Ana in the China war zone last summer, will tell of his experiences to Lions club members here Tuesday night.

Dr. Hardy will interpret conditions in the Far East as he saw them during the trip. He is a graduate of Pomona college, and his wife was Miss Amy Mead, member of a Santa Ana family and sister of Loren Mead.

Homing Pigeon Knows His Way —Trick Is to Make Him Hurry

THIRD AT HOME
When the bird comes through the hinged door, background, the fancier removes the counter-marker and puts it into a timer. A turn of the crank records on a tape the exact arrival time.

By AURELIUS KINSEY
A Race Service Writer
CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The way to show a homing pigeon the way to go home, but it takes lots of patience to get him there fast.

Fanciers who train pigeons for the racing season, in full swing in late summer and early fall, must understand how to breed speed, endurance and intelligence in their birds. He must spend hours with them, gaining their confidence and affection. And he must be somewhat of a psychologist—able to speed a jealous racing male toward the rival imprisoned in the home loft, or to the mother of her young.

Each bird bears three identification numbers. His life-long number is a scannable aluminum leg band. His second number is stamped outside of the countermarker within the folds of which is a third, secretly recorded, number.

The banded birds are placed in pairs, or willow shipping baskets, which are taken in special runs, where the starting point, here the fancier's loft, is marked with a master clock to record the day, hour, minute and second each bird returns to its loft.

THREE BANDS ON LEG
A race fancier takes a homing pigeon to headquarters. There the birds are registered and rubber counter-marks are snapped around their legs.

Home headquarters are notified by telephone of the time and weather conditions. This information is telephoned to the participating fancier. He studies wind and weather and calculates the hour and minute the first of his entries should arrive for the home loft. In this year, each fancier far above the house-tops and dares into the loft with his timing clock.

TRAINING
Pigeon fanciers start early to coach the birds for racing by sending them on short flights to their home loft.

HERS A MARKED BIRD
Just before the bird is sent to the starting point of the race, its leg is banded with a counter-marker bearing its race number and a hidden one. This machine snaps on the rubber band.

SACRAMENTO, (AP)—A fixed amount of the liquor taxes collected by the state should be set aside to pay for the treatment of alcoholics and put them on their feet, you go," said Harry L. Rogers, state director of institutions, suggested at the governor's council today.

He said he was opposed to admitting ordinary drunks to the institution, but that the state should pay for the treatment of those who are taking up beds which should be used for institutional cases.
